What is the IJIS Institute?

The IJIS Institute is a 501(3)(c) nonprofit organization funded primarily by the U.S. Department of Justice, the Bureau of Justice Assistance, and the U.S. Department of Homeland Security through Federal grant programs. The IJIS Institute's membership is composed of companies and consultancies providing services or products to the public safety, justice, emergency management and homeland security communities with the purpose of helping the agencies enable or improve information sharing.

A Partnership: Government and Industry Working Together

The IJIS Institute is unique. It is the only national organization where Government and Industry work together in partnership to bring improvement through an innovative service delivery model. Together we:

- engage the resources of industry;
- provide responsive services;
- advance national IT standards;
- deliver high impact programs; and
- bring the "best thinking" to national issues.

Why Should My Company Join?

Some benefits simply can't be quantified, and we believe that the greatest benefit of our membership fits into that category. The IJIS Institute wasn't founded to make a profit, but rather to make a difference. That difference is to make our country and our communities safer through effective information sharing. No one company in this industry can do this alone, but together we can help affect change that will help secure our nation against threats. We are in a unique position to help turn our nation's First Responders to First Preventers.

Our members reap a number of important benefits for their participation and support such as:

- industry participation with government in the National standards development process;
- exposure to state and local justice agency officials and practitioners, through meetings, training seminars, and opportunities to participate in technical assistance with these agencies well before any formal RFP may be released;
- a consolidated voice for industry; and
- access to key decision makers through executive briefings with high-level elected and appointed individuals from the U.S. Congress, U.S. Department of Justice, and related government agencies.

How Can My Company Join?

IJIS Institute membership is open to any company or consultancy interested in becoming part of the solution for more effective information sharing. By joining, you are helping to support the Institute's mission by participating in national efforts to improve the quality of information technology applications in the realm of justice, public safety, emergency management, and homeland security.

The IJIS Institute has two classes of membership:

Member companies pay annual dues and is eligible to serve on all committees, and in the delivery of technology assistance and training services. Only representatives of dues-paying member firms may serve on the IJIS Institute's Board of Directors.

Affiliate companies pay no dues and may serve on project and advisory committees and participate in the work engagements of the Institute, although preference for such opportunities is given to Member companies.
