

As a non-profit consortium of firms that supply technical solutions and services to the justice, public safety, and homeland security sectors, the IJS Institute is uniquely qualified to provide and appoint industry experts to panels, committees, work groups, task forces, or other issue-based initiatives of national significance.

Collaboration on issues of national significance ... joining government and industry.

These IJS Institute industry experts offer the following services during their assigned engagements:

- Provide technical expertise, advise, and services in a company-neutral manner.
- Assist with policy and strategy development by offering the “voice of industry” and explaining relevant technology trends.
- Offer advice on the best method for engaging industry to realize a particular goal by being the liaison between national scope initiatives and IJS Institute membership.
- Make presentations and speakers available to private and public professionals in support of conferences, forums, exhibitions, meetings, user briefings, and other events.

IJS Institute National Scope Industry Representatives act as the eyes, ears, and voice of private industry. These industry technology leaders volunteer their time and expertise to improve systems that provide critical information to the justice and public safety professionals that protect and serve our communities.
